Market Closing—Just as market began to look weak in late afternoon a buying movement started and stocks responded vigorously, forcing a number of shorts to cover hurriedly and taking prices to a level above Monday's best figures. The rise was based on reiterated rumors that decision in rate case would be rendered within about twenty-four hours and that it would make an important concession to demands of the roads.

Pennsylvania scored an advance relatively larger than any seen in that issue in a similar length of time of late, while Lehigh Valley, which had benefit of a short interest as well as of the argument based on probability of an increase of rates for Eastern roads, made a larger gain than any of the railroad issues. The fact that Can advanced simultaneously with Lehigh Valley was regarded as an indication of a bullish attitude on part of the Reid-Moore interests.

Opening was tame affair, volume of business being small, while price changes were utterly negligible. Stocks eased off on later transactions, with Missouri Pacific the weak feature, losing 1½ to 10½ and the 4 per cent. bonds to 49. Stocks developed a heavy tone in early afternoon.
